1. Project Overview

This document is a complete brief for the design and development of Gathoni Mwai's professional coaching website. The site will serve as the primary commercial platform for paid 1-on-1 coaching services targeting African professionals and graduates across two specialist areas: UK MBA Admissions and Consulting Interview Preparation.

Website owner	Gathoni Mwai
Purpose	Enable African clients to learn about services, book paid coaching sessions, and be inspired by a coach who looks like them and has walked the same path
Services	UK MBA Admissions Coaching; Consulting Interview Preparation
Target audience	African professionals and graduates seeking to enter top UK MBA programs or land consulting roles in Africa and globally
Tone & feel	Warm, credible, aspirational, and distinctly African. Bold and confident in colour, red is the hero. Like speaking to a brilliant friend who has already done what you are trying to do.
Colour palette	Bold Red (#C1121F) Deep Navy (#1B3A6B) Gold (#C9922A) Pan-African Green (#1A6B3A) — see Section 7 (Hapa cheza nayo vile unadai :D)
Launch deadline	15 th April 2026
Budget	TBD

2. About Me - Website Copy

The following is ready-to-use copy. Use this text as provided. I will review and add any personal touches before going live.

2.1 — Tagline / Page Headline

"Oxford MBA. Former McKinsey. Helping Africans access the world's best opportunities."

2.2 — Full Bio (About Page)

Hey, I'm Gathoni.

I'm a Kenyan professional currently completing my Masters in Business Administration (MBA) at Oxford's Saïd Business School. I am one of fewer than 10% of Africans in my cohort, and one of the even smaller number who got here on a full scholarship (the Laidlaw Foundation covered 100% of my tuition).

Before Oxford, I spent five years in consulting across roughly 15 African countries, advising development finance institutions (DFIs), banks, and NGOs on some of the continent's toughest economic challenges. I've worked at McKinsey & Company's Nairobi office, risen to Senior Associate at Genesis Analytics (Africa's largest economics consulting firm), and worked at Rogers MacJohn, an impact-driven management consultancy. What sets me apart is my ability to balance high-level strategic vision with ground-level operational feasibility to execute development initiatives sustainably in African markets.

But here's the honest truth: none of that path was straightforward or obvious when I was where you are now.

I know what it's like to be an ambitious African student trying to crack processes that weren't really designed with you in mind. There is a limited alumni network pointing you in the right direction, few coaches who have been through the same journey and no clear roadmap. You're talented. You just need someone in your corner who actually gets it.

That's why I started coaching.

Whether you're building your MBA application to LBS, Oxford, or Cambridge, or preparing to walk into a consulting interview in Nairobi, I've done both, and I can show you how. Let's make sure your story lands the way it deserves to.

 DEVELOPER NOTE: Bio text should appear on the About page as written. Reserve prominent space for a professional headshot — circular crop, right-aligned on desktop, full-width on mobile.

2.3 — Credential Badges (Homepage + About Page)

Display as a bold visual grid with red fills and strong icons — on both the homepage (compact) and About page (full).

 Oxford MBA Saïd Business School, Class of 2026	 Laidlaw Foundation Scholar Full tuition scholarship — Oxford MBA
 McKinsey & Company Young Leaders Programme Fellow, Nairobi	 Genesis Analytics Senior Associate — Africa's largest economics consulting firm
 CFA Research Challenge Winner	 Oxford Africa Business Alliance

3. Website Structure & Pages

The website should have the following pages. Each is described in full detail in the sub-sections below.

#	Page Name	URL Slug
1	Home	/
2	About Me	/about
3	For Africans — Why This Matters	/africa
4	Services: UK MBA Admissions	/services/mba-admissions
5	Services: Consulting Interview Prep	/services/consulting-interviews
6	Book a Session	/book
7	Testimonials	/testimonials
8	Blog / Resources (Phase 2)	/blog
9	Contact	/contact

3.1 — Home Page (/)

Purpose	First impression. Communicate who Gathoni is, why she is uniquely qualified to help Africans, and drive visitors to book.
Sections / Content	• Hero section: Bold headline, 'Get into Oxford, LBS, or Cambridge. Land your consulting offer. Coached by someone who has done it.', two bold CTA buttons: 'MBA Admissions Coaching' and 'Consulting Interview Prep' • Credential bar / trust strip: Oxford McKinsey Genesis Analytics Laidlaw Scholar, accented badges • Two service pathway cards with headers: MBA Admissions and Consulting Interview Prep, each with an African-focused hook and 'Learn More' button • Why an African coach? - lines with a red left-border accent explaining why Gathoni's shared background matters: 'Your background isn't a disadvantage. Most coaches just don't know what to do with it. African students bring sharp analytical thinking, real-world experience in complex markets, and stories that no one from a Western university can replicate. The problem isn't your profile, it's knowing how to position it. I've sat where you sit, walked into the same rooms, and won. I coach Africans specifically because I understand your starting point, your strengths, and exactly how to make the people on the other side of that application or interview table take notice.' • Key stats: '5+ years in consulting Oxford MBA McKinsey Kenya to Oxford', bold red numbers • Bold CTA section: 'Ready to start your journey? Book a 20-minute discovery call'

Dev Notes	Hero: text left, headshot right on desktop; stacked on mobile. CTA buttons above the fold. Final CTA block: bold red background with white text, the most eye-catching element on the page.

3.2 About Me (/about)

About Me
Purpose	Build deep personal trust. Help African clients see themselves in Gathoni's story.
Sections / Content	- Professional headshot - Name and headline tagline (from Section 2.1) - Full bio narrative (use copy verbatim from Section 2.2) - Credentials grid - 6 badges from Section 2.3 - Career timeline: Citibank → McKinsey → Rogers MacJohn → Genesis Analytics → Oxford MBA — red-accented - Education: Oxford Said (MBA 2026) and Strathmore University (BSc Financial Economics, 2019) - Achievements: Laidlaw Scholar, CFA Challenge Winner, Oxford Africa Alliance Co-Director - Bold red CTA: 'Work with me' linking to /book
Dev Notes	Career timeline can be a vertical dot-accented component. Red used for CTA buttons and highlighted institution names (McKinsey, Oxford). LinkedIn badge included.
Dev Notes	Use bold red as the dominant accent — hero background, card borders, CTA. Consider a Nairobi or Lagos skyline image. African city imagery, not Western stock photos.

3.3 Services: UK MBA Admissions (/services/mba-admissions)

MBA Admissions Services Page
Purpose	Convince African MBA applicants that Gathoni is the ideal coach. Convert visitors into bookings.
Sections / Content	- Red headline: 'UK MBA Admissions Coaching for African Applicants' - Sub-headline: 'Personalized guidance from someone who got in, on a full scholarship, and understands exactly where you are starting from.' - Profile evaluation section: Gathoni assesses each client's profile, identifies gaps, and recommends the right school list based on GMAT/GRE, background, and goals - Service packages in bold red-header tier cards (see Section 4.1) - Schools: LBS, Oxford Said, Cambridge Judge, Imperial, Warwick. - Scholarships section (visually prominent red box): Laidlaw, Mastercard AfOx, Rhodes, Commonwealth. Gathoni is a Laidlaw Scholar and advises on all - Narrative strategy section: 'Your African story is an asset — but it has to be told right. I help you move beyond the tired narratives admissions readers have seen before and craft something authentic, specific, and compelling.' • Letters of recommendation: guidance on who to ask, how to brief them, and how to ensure your recommenders strengthen (not just repeat) your application • Career narrative development: defining a coherent post-MBA goal that resonates with top admissions committees • How it works: red-accented step flow — Profile Evaluation → Career Narrative → Essays & CV → Interview Prep → Application • FAQ accordion (see Section 6.1) • Red CTA: 'Book your MBA ApplicationStrategy Call'

Dev Notes	Scholarships section is a major differentiator for African candidates — highlight with a bold red box. Step flow uses red numbered circles.

3.5 — Services: Consulting Interview Prep (/services/consulting-interviews)

Consulting Interview Services Page
Purpose	Help African consulting candidates feel Gathoni truly understands their context — global and Africa-focused firms.
Sections / Content	• Red headline: 'Consulting Interview Preparation for African Candidates' • Sub-headline: 'Coached by a former McKinsey fellow and Genesis Analytics consultant who knows what African offices look for.' • Service packages in bold red-header tier cards (see Section 4.2) • Firms: McKinsey Africa, BCG, Bain, Dalberg, Genesis Analytics, Deloitte Africa, Oliver Wyman, PwC Strategy • What is a case interview? — plain-English explainer with red-accented box • Session flow: Mock case → Feedback → Personalized plan → Repeat • Section on leveraging African market knowledge as a strength in interviews • FAQ accordion (see Section 6.2) • Bold red CTA: 'Book your first mock interview'
Dev Notes	Call out African consulting firms explicitly — McKinsey Nairobi, BCG Johannesburg, Genesis Analytics. Use red badges. This differentiates Gathoni from Western coaching platforms.

3.6 — Book a Session (/book)

Booking Page
Purpose	Core commercial transaction page. Simple, frictionless, confidence-inspiring.
Sections / Content	• Short intro: 'Choose your session type and book below. Sessions are via Zoom or Google Meet.'

	• Two booking widgets: MBA Admissions Consulting Interview Prep • Embedded Calendly (recommended — see Section 5) • Cancellation policy: '3 hours notice required' • Red reassurance box: 'Not sure which session? Start with a free 20-minute discovery call.' • Post-booking: automated confirmation email with Zoom link and session prep notes
Dev Notes	Booking tool must support: Stripe payment, Google Calendar sync, Zoom link generation, automated reminders, and time zone auto-detection (WAT / CAT / EAT for African clients).

Add contact details somewhere for pre-booking enquiries:

- Intro: 'Have a question? I respond to all messages within 24 hours.'
- Contact form: Name, Email, Country (African countries dropdown), Subject, Message Submit button
- Email: Gathoni.mwai0@gmail.com
- LinkedIn link: <https://www.linkedin.com/in/gathoni-mwai-6747a8118/>

'Currently based in Oxford, UK (GMT). Available across all African time zones.'

6. FAQ Content

Developer to implement as collapsible accordion sections on service pages. Copy is ready to use as written.

6.1 MBA Admissions FAQs

Q: I went to a university in Africa. Can I still get into LBS or Oxford?

A: Absolutely! And this is one of the most important things I help clients with. Top UK business schools actively seek diverse, international profiles. Graduates from many African universities have been admitted to the world's top MBAs. The key is knowing how to position your profile and tell your story compellingly. I did it from Strathmore University, and I can help you do it too.

Q: Are there scholarships available for African MBA applicants?

A: Yes, and this is a major focus of my coaching. As a Laidlaw Foundation Scholar at Oxford (100% tuition funded), I have first-hand experience of the scholarship application process. Key awards include: the Laidlaw Foundation Scholarship, Mastercard AfOx Scholarship, Chevening Scholarships, the Commonwealth Scholarship, and school-specific bursaries at LBS, Oxford, Cambridge, and Imperial. I help clients identify the right scholarships and craft strong applications.

Q: How do I avoid sounding like every other African MBA applicant?

A: This is one of the most important and underrated parts of the application. Many African applicants default to the same narrative, the poverty, the resilience, the desire to 'give back to Africa'. Admissions committees have read this story thousands of times. I help you dig deeper to find what is genuinely specific, interesting, and authentic about your journey. Your African experience is an asset, but only if you tell it in a way that is yours alone.

Q: When should I start preparing?

A: Ideally 9–12 months before your target intake. That said, I have successfully supported clients on shorter timelines. Reach out whenever you are, and we will build the right plan from where you are.

Q: Which schools do you specialise in?

A: University of Oxford Said Business School, London Business School (LBS), Cambridge Judge Business School, Imperial College Business School, and Warwick Business School. I will help you decide which schools best match your profile and goals.

6.2. Consulting Interview FAQs

Q: Do you prepare clients for African consulting firms, or only global ones?

A: Both. I have direct experience at McKinsey Nairobi and Genesis Analytics, Africa's largest economics consulting firm. I can prepare you for MBB offices across Africa (Nairobi, Lagos, Johannesburg, Casablanca) as well as development consulting firms like Dalberg. Sessions are tailored to the specific firm and office you are targeting.

Q: I have never done a case interview. Where do I start?

A: Perfectly fine. Most of my clients start from scratch. I recommend a single introductory session where I assess your level, explain the format, and we can build a personalized plan. No prior experience required.

Q: Can my African work experience be a strength in consulting interviews?

A: Absolutely, and most African candidates do not realize this. Experience in markets like Kenya, Nigeria, or Ghana in financial inclusion, agriculture, or infrastructure gives you genuine insight that many candidates from Western universities simply do not have. I will help you frame your African experience as a competitive advantage.

Q: How many sessions will I need?

A: Most clients are interview-ready after 3–5 focused sessions, depending on starting point and dedicated independent practice. After your first session, I will give you an honest assessment and recommended plan.

7. Design Direction

7.1. Reference Websites

- casecoach.com/c/ — specialist consulting coaching platform; how coaches are credentialed, listed, and booked
- joinleland.com/search/career/management-consulting — marketplace coach cards, punchy credential headlines, outcome-focused bios

7.2. Colour Palette

Napenda colour red but naona ikiwa kwa website it might be too much. I am open to feminine colors like mustard, gold, lakini si pink ama purple

7.2 — Overall Feel

- Bold, vibrant, and confident – make the site feel energetic and aspirational
 - Premium and high-trust - this is a high-value coaching service
 - Proudly African - the identity is a strength, not a niche
 - Clean layouts (not too cluttered)
